With Sustainability in the Core of our Business

- Corporate Responsibility at Toms Group

The ability to operate and develop the business sustainably, with respect to both people and our planet, plays a significant role in pursuing and ensuring our continued growth and success. That is the firm belief of the Danish chocolate manufacturer the Toms Group.

“More than two decades has passed since we started to fight for sustainable cocoa in a persistent and structured way, so that belief is deeply embedded in the way we do things”, Ditte Haugaard Clausen, Head of Sustainability and Communications at Toms Group, says.

And this belief is an important driver for the people working in the Toms Group. It motivates the approach and initiatives along the supply chain of the company – from the cocoa sourcing in Ghana to the chocolate production in Denmark.

Welcome to the green frog!

For the last two decades, Toms has invested in local initiatives, sourced its cocoa beans through programs supporting sustainable cocoa production, and been engaged in leading international organizations to improve the livelihoods of cocoa farmers and their children and to protect forests.

Toms will continue this journey and is committed to increasing the efforts and pushing for more changes at a faster pace.

“We have set the target that by end of 2024 100% of our cocoa suppliers are required to meet the same standards: that the cocoa production must be covered by standards or certifications where the farms are proven to have no deforestation and with systems in place, that effectively prevent, monitor, and remediate child labour. We have the Rainforest Alliance seal on our packaging, providing consumers with an assurance of our products’ quality and that the cocoa is sourced sustainably”, Ditte says.

Safeguarding the environments for cocoa farming

Sustainability is embedded into Toms Group business strategy and is reflected in the way we support the surroundings of cocoa farming.

“The conditions for farming cocoa are impacted by climate and deforestation, and in collaboration with Rainforest Alliance, we have entered into a reforestation project in Ghana, where the bulk of our cocoa is sourced from,” Ditte explains.

While much of the project is focused on training and enabling the local cocoa communities to become more resilient against the challenges they face, there is also a need to look beyond the cocoa farms and take their entire eco-system into consideration. With this project, many degraded environments will receive a helping hand, and more than 150,000 trees are scheduled to be planted over the next few years.”

Fighting climate changes science based

Besides the comprehensive effort for sustainable sourcing of cocoa and other raw materials, the Toms Group is also committed to do its part in combatting climate changes.

In 2022, Toms Group joined the Science Based Targets initiative (SBTi). This will guide and ensure that the company reduces emissions of greenhouse gases across the entire business, in line with the targets set in the Paris Agreement.

At the end of 2023, Toms Group submitted targets on reduction of GHG emissions throughout its value chain, and the company has already set ambitious targets on the reductions in scope 1 and 2 – and seen massive reductions towards reaching this target. The targets were validated in early 2024 by the SBTi.

“By 2030, we target a 68% reduction of the GHG emissions connected to our own production – compared to our emissions in 2021”, Ditte tells.

Supporting the green transformation

In 2023, Toms Group managed to decrease emissions from own production by 8% and used 16% less energy.

“We are continually supporting the green transformation and in late 2023 we entered into a Power Purchase Agreement on a solar plant located in Denmark. This plant generates 56 GWh/year to the grid – of which 4 GWh are earmarked for Toms, covering 73% of the electricity consumption at our Danish sweets factory and 27% of our total electricity consumption in Denmark,” Dittes says and continues:

“In 2022, we made the decision to invest in the construction of our first own solar power plant on our property in Nowa Sol, Poland and it will be up and running in Q4 2024.”

94% and counting...

The objective of the Toms Group is to produce the best chocolate and sweets products packed in the most efficient and appropriate packaging materials available while, at the same time, satisfying consumer requirements and meeting their expectations.

For years, the Toms Group has been working towards a higher degree of circularity in its packaging solutions and has set the target to reach 100% recyclable packaging materials by 2025 at the latest.

In 2023, the Toms Group reached 94% recyclability across all products, which is very close to 100%, while the company approaches the final part of the journey humbly. Ditte tells:

“We know, that to accomplish the remaining 6% is the most challenging part. But we continue our development and are sure that the consumers will welcome any small changes that help our products to be more sustainable – and support the important development towards circular packaging.”

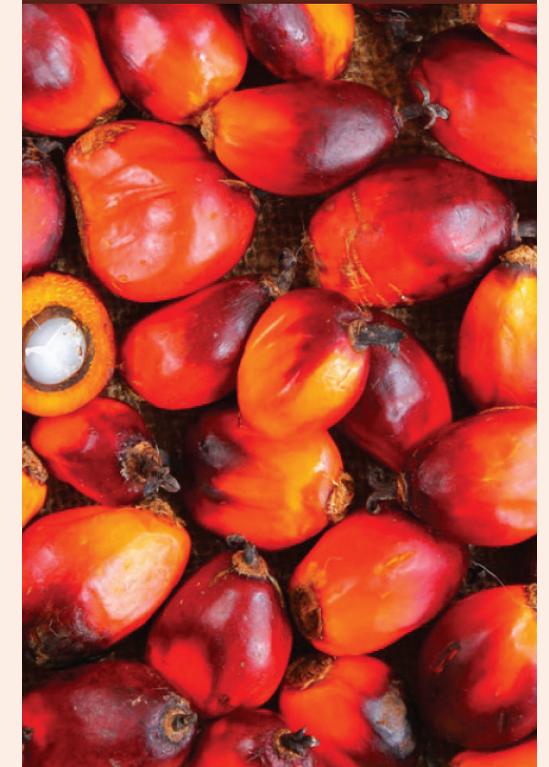

Palm Oil

Even though cocoa will always be the most important raw material for the Toms Group, the CSR strategy of the group also covers other important raw materials.

For instance, palm oil. With a highly complex supply chain, the transition to sustainable production and use of palm oil requires dedicated efforts from a huge number of players in the industry.

Therefore, Toms Group is using 100% certified (RSPO) palm oil and works through a membership of RSPO for making sustainable palm oil the norm.

Toms' history dates back to 1924 when the two pharmacists Trojel and (og) Meyer founded the company. The growth of the business accelerated in the years after World War II with the entrepreneurial owner of Tørsleff & Co, Victor B. Strand, at the helm of Toms Chocolate Factory.

Victor B. Strand laid down the groundwork for the Toms Group in the mid-1950s by acquiring Anthon Berg (founded 1884), Penguin Liquorice (founded 1904 under the name J. Høeg's Liquorice and Sugar Factories) in 1962 and Galle & Jessen (founded 1872) in 1971.
